Price Keeps Its Fingers Crossed Until April Comes

The people of Price, Farmingdale attempt to curb drug abuse, are keeping their fingers crossed until April when new state aid is expected to help cover expenses of the program.

Two weeks ago, in a story published in the Observer, the funds necessary to run the program in Farmingdale on a full time basis were quoted by Price as amounting to $3,000 a month.

The biggest item of the expenses $2,000 are salaries to professional personnel who are needed if the program is to be successful. Other expenses consist of rent ($260 a month) and funds to run the various programs.

As was stated before, Price had to institute cut backs in expenses in order to survive the time during which State aid was withheld. The Youth Center of Price is presently closed and on Saturdays and the salaried staff has volunteered to stay on either without pay or with only partial payment.

Price is continuing its membership drive on a daily basis. The youths are entering Farmingdale door to door. Adults from Price are also approaching the businessmen in town for donations to Share in our Youth. These monies are necessary to keep the Youth Center open for the next few months until the state allocated money for the coming fiscal year.

Thus far, Price has collected approximately $900 but they still have a long way to go. The cold weather and snow has impeded some of their programs. In addition to personal checks from persons from St. James, donations have been made from the Farmingdale Jewish Center, Women's Club of Farmingdale and many merchants in Farmingdale and South Farmingdale.

Monday night, February 14, Ron Swoboda, famous baseball player, will visit Price's Youth Center at 265 Main Street, Farmingdale. From 9:00 to 10:00 p.m. He will hold a rapt audience with the teenagers. Everyone is welcome to come and meet this popular figure in the sports world.

The spark that led to Thursday's melee was ignited on Wednesday night. It was a chain of unhappy coincidences. It started when a tenth grade black girl in special education, who was being called names. As she went into a tenor, she kicked the boy, who retaliated by pushing her. This led to a free swinging brawl that was over within 20 minutes, however.

The school officials took all precautions to prevent renewed outbreaks of violence when school opened Thursday morning. But it happened anyway. As school officials and plainclothesmen talked to a group of black students emerging from a school in Farmingdale, two other black students walked by towards the commons and the big fight started. Immediately, the other students got involved and for a while really looked bad. Police responded to a call for help and were at the scene of the fight. There were no reports of serious injuries but ambulances were called to assist the school officials with their physical damages.

School officials say they are greatly disturbed about a recurrence of the problem. "We have only between 70 and 80 black students in our school," one school official said. "I don't give no love lost between them and the rest of the students, but in the past we have been able to talk things down. We are hopeful this can be done again in the future."

But only the future can tell. As the tension builds up, such outbreaks of violence must be controlled. It is up to the school administration for any emergency that may come up in the future. As the guard at the entrance gate said: "If sure could have been worse."

Fund Record Topped

Farmingdale went over the top in the Community Log's annual fundraising campaign of the United Fund of Long Island. According to Gregory Carman, the Community Campaign Chairman, who is a member of the law firm of Carman, Callahan and Carman, 101 per cent of goal was achieved. "This is the first time that Farmingdale exceeded its goal in seven years of community campaigning," Mr. Carman said.
OUT OF SIGHT!

If you were going to design a lawn mower, where would you put the grass catcher?

On the right side, so it bumps into whatever's sticking up on your right? On the left side, so it does the same there?

The fact is, most grass bags are afterthoughts. They stick out one side. They simply weren't designed to be a part of the mower.

The Snapper V21 or 18 has its grass bag between the handles. You can close trim on both sides and vacuum your lawn of pine straw, leaves and light litter while you're mowing. We made the grass bag extra large, too. Far less emptying.

In fact, all the good things about Snapper V21 or 18 are logical. The result of sound design and planning by people who make lawn equipment and only lawn equipment. Not afterthoughts.

Snapper has developed a great attachment for vacuuming grass, leaves, pine needles and light litter.

We call it the grass catcher attachment. But it takes care of a lot more than just grass clippings.

And it's mounted in the back, to offer easier handling and greater maneuverability as you vacuum clean your lawn.

- Optional grass catcher fits all 26" or 30" Comets.
- Holds six bushels. Unloads in seconds.

Bipartisan Assault On Short Term Increases

A Republican State Senator, a Democratic Assembyman and a Hofstra economist agree that the state Public Service Commission is not providing the adequate protection against the constant pressure by the utilities for rate increases.

State Senator George Murphy (R - Seaford) is preparing legislation to prevent the repetition of short term rate increase requests by public utilities for hikes just under the 2 percent minimum which would require public hearings. By employing these tactics they hope that this gradual "whittling away of the consumer's pocketbook" will go unnoticed.

Murphy's bill will prohibit the filing of a rate increase application for a period of 15 months (not 12 months as reported elsewhere) and would also apply to water companies.

The philosophy of the PSC law, Murphy said, is not to go beyond a "reasonable rate of return on investment." But LILCO, with the "highest earnings in its history" has gone beyond the reasonable and is now in the "comfortable, if not luxury profit stage" with hikes increasing the expense of the public.

A similar bill for the utilities in case of the "dire emergency" would be provided in the bill. Murphy said the public would not allow a rate increase request to be entertained by the PSC before the mandatory 15-month waiting period (not 12 months as indicated) in order to "whitewash" a situation which would seriously impair operating capability or if the financial hardship is not being borne irreparably. However, a heavy burden would be placed on the consumer to prove that such is indeed the case and a separate hearing before the PSC would have to be held in that issue alone.

Dr. Carol Schwartz, Hofstra economist and associate of the New Frontier Consumers Council who testified at the Jan. 20, PSC hearing on the latest LILCO rate increase, was "not all self-serving." At the annual legislative hearing held by Assembleman Stanley Harwood (D - Levittown) on Jan. 20, Dr. Schwartz had proposed the creation of a State Department of Consumer Affairs responsible for the presentation of "an informed and authoritative case on behalf of the consumer," before the PSC.

She suggested that the department have the power to subpoena records and witnesses and take testimony. Dr. Schwartz envisioned a plaintiff - defendant relationship between the utility and the Consumer Affairs department with the latter acting as public advocate.

Meanwhile, Harwood said that he intends to file a bill calling for the establishment of a Department of Consumer Affairs that would have "power to carry out the function intended." Furthermore, the right of the public to be heard would be assured and the existence of a Consumer Affairs advocate would "shift the burden of proof" in justifying applications.

Harwood said that he had intended to introduce legislation for a similar set-up last year but held off until he could evaluate the effectiveness of the Consumer Council established by Gov. Rockefeller. He realized that the Consumer Council had not been made to be "strong enough" and heavenly that Betty Furness, who was appointed to head the operation, resigned calling it "an exercise in futility." Miss Furness said that she had been unable to obtain any cooperation either from the legislative leadership or the governor and termed the office a "public relations gimmick."

Harwood said he would tend to favor Murphy's bill because he was definitely for any law that would place "more stringent limitations on the utilities than now exist." However, he expressed some concern lest the periodic nature of requesting rate increases have the effect, by implication, to begot automatic approval by the PSC at the expiration of each waiting period.

Murphy thought that an Office of Consumer Affairs was a "great idea." He said that as a town councilman he had tried to play that role on behalf of his constituents. However, as a state senator, the demands on his time make it impossible to devote the attention necessary to be as effective against the utilities as he had been in the past. Based on his own experience and knowledge of the members of the PSC and its staff, Murphy believed that the PSC would not oppose the creation of such an agency and would probably welcome the idea of some body which would "casually, but effectively, check the PSC." He praised utilities for "embarrassingly involved" sometimes with the utilities.

Murphy agreed that the public would be better served by an independent agency with full-time, continuing involvement in public utilities matters. The plaintiff - defendant relationship would have the effect of placing the PSC in a quasi-judicial status.

FIRST TEST: The Nassau Coliseum will undergo its first efficiency test this Friday, February 11, when the Nets play their very first league game in the new sports arena. Last week, at a special tour given to public officials and the weekly press, the Coliseum impressed everyone present, although it was far from finished. There will be a lot of official opening ceremonies of the Coliseum, but for the sports fans the day is this Friday. Our picture shows the Coliseum risk as seen from the steel rafters last week. FARMINGDALE OBSERVER

South Bay to Become Mega-Highway?

"Population pressure totally overpowers all arguments in favor of protecting the environment," Hofstra Prof. Robert Johnson said in an audience of over 300 at the Marine Environment Forum co-sponsored by the Save Our Bays Association and the Seaford High School Ecology Club at the Seaford School last Monday night. Warning that if population projections, based mostly on infall rather than natural increase, are permitted to be realized, Johnson said that Nassau has to become like Brooklyn and face a "complete loss of wetlands" and a significant "deterioration in the quality of life." Pointing out that it is not possible to get rid of existing housing, Johnson said that by means of a viaduct in the south shore bays.

Commenting on the claim of the New York State Department of Transportation that there is no "minimal" environmental and ecological disturbance from a Mega-Highway, Johnson said that Gov. Rockefeller is only interested in the "sweet spot of the structure; the part where the plaque with his name on it goes."

The other speakers, Dr. A. Harvey Daniel, director of Adelphi University's Marine Science Center, and Dr. John C. Baird of the N.Y.E. Ocean Sciences Institution at Montauk, also stressed the destructive effects of population increase on a deteriorating environment.

Baird said that by 1980 it was anticipated that there would be an annual increase of 3,000-5,000 new offshore oil wells with 3-5 million tons of seepage resulting each year. The cancer-causing elements in oil could eventually affect man through the ecological food chain. He emphasized the increase in population-generated pollution and addressed the present and anticipated control measures. "The public must make certain that we reap the greatest benefit of our resources and that we do not produce the least possible harm from our efforts."

One of the greatest problems with his "Learning to Live" under the bay was the multiplicity of conflicting and overpricing jurisdictions and special interests. All levels of government must get together and continue to produce, without delay, a comprehensive and practical management plan," Dr. Brenowitz said.

Peter Aikens, a guest representing the Bureau of Environmental Protection of the state Attorney General's Office, told the audience that stopping pollution alone is not enough, "but we are not afraid to make enemies," and that he would assure that his office would engage in "vigorous legal action to protect the environment."

Linda Maciejewski, H.S. Ecolog Club and ORA coordinator for Nassau secondary school environmental groups, introduced the program with a special welcome to the almost 100 students from Garden City, Massapequa, Farmingdale, Bellmore, Great Neck, Half Hollow Hills, Levittown and Dave Anderson. In the audience was a group from the Manor School as well as representatives from Hofstra, Adelphi and the State University at Stony Brook. Spencer Balaban, of Massapequa, served as moderator.

Meditation Session

The International Meditation Society will introduce an interactive lecture into Transcendental Meditation (TM) on Friday, February 11, at 8:00 p.m. in the V.P. Auditorium on 1080 Park Boulevard in Massapequa Park.

The society claims that TM is a simple, natural, mental technique which allows the individual to develop his creative intelligence, an activity which, at the same time, as medical studies indicate, the body experiences as a state of deeper rest than during sleep. The lecture is open to the public.

A PROCLAMATION issued by Massapequa Park mayor Wayne Sunderland (right) declares Sunday, February 13 a day of mourning and reflection for Massapequa Park residents, focusing attention on the tragic events in New York's Netherland. Sunderland and presidential advisor Stephen McCabe (left), president of the American Committee for Udriste Justice and Martin Gannon, a trustee of the committee and legislative aide to Assemblyman Phil Healey.

LIBRARY NOTES

Mr. Caso's Message

We have heard the State of the Union message by the President and the State of the State message by the Governor. Not to be left out, County Executive Ralph Caso came forward with his State of the County message.

It is a mixed bag of proposals. Some deserve applause. Some, however, do not rate more than a Bronx cheer in our unsolicited opinion.

Let's applaud first. We can say in "Amen" to Mr. Caso's proposal for a special fund to support the reorganization of the county's welfare operation. We could see considerable savings resulting from a streamlining of the welfare operation, without depriving those of help who really need it. This agreement with the County Federation, that the housing shortage has reached a level so critical that the county government must assume a more energetic role in supporting and encouraging new housing ventures on a basis of cooperation with all cities, towns and villages in the county.

Now to our disagreements. By law, a reapportionment of the county must be proposed. Mr. Caso plans to do just that, a key part of his plan being the removal of the county's two mayors and three supervisors from the new County Legislature.

This does not sit too well with us. We see this as another step in the destruction of the concept of home rule. Each city and town in the county has special, justifiable concerns. The presence of our mayors and supervisors in county government assures that these concerns will be heeded. We do not want to see a County Legislature so independent that it becomes unresponsive to local problems and aspirations. We want our mayors and supervisors to be reduced to the impotence of a New York City borough president.

And there is another point where we take issue with Mr. Caso: "In a sense, do you really mean it when you say that the MTA should take over the taking the bus systems in the county? Do you really mean it when you say that this "can cure our mass transit sickness"? Please say it isn't so.

Main Street Mall

On December 9 of last year the OBSERVER asked if the idea of converting Main Street into a pedestrian mall had any merit. Last week we reported the idea of Main Street being given over to a weekend evening, an idea supported by Weatherly High School's evening regular School Board meeting that there will be budget hearings at each school giving the public the opportunity to discuss questions about the individual school's budget.

Representatives of the school board and administration are at all budget hearings. All will be held at 8:30 p.m. the dates are: January 27 at Avery Avenue, East Main and Memorial Schools, February 23 at Northside, Parkway Oaks and Woodrow High Schools, and March 8 at the Senior and Junior High Schools.

These preliminary budget hearings will report on budget suggestions by supervisors and administrators, and at the curriculum meetings. The results of the curriculum meetings will be reported at a meeting on March 5.

When I arrived in Congress a decade ago, I voted against President Franklin Roosevelt, who had supported a bill providing for governmental collective bargaining for federal workers. I believed that the right to collective bargaining was a democracy in the United States. But the system was not perfect and public employees had a right to bargain. I was convinced of the value of honesty and hard work.

I welcome collective bargaining, the public workers have the right to choose their leaders and to negotiate for increases. Although I am as dedicated to the principle of free enterprise and collective bargaining, the public workers have the right to choose their leaders and to negotiate for increases. Although I am as dedicated to the principle of free enterprise as to the necessity of competitive business, I believe that the public workers have the right to choose their leaders and to negotiate for increases. As this was being written, the Labor Committee of Vermont was operating under a 15-day work stoppage caused by a wage-price freeze. This threat to the right to collective bargaining is not new or unexpected. The right to collective bargaining is a democratic institution that has been protected by the law.

The record shows that the maximum of freedom is a pressing reason for upholding this right. The law is clear. The court has held that the right to the pursuit of happiness is an individual's right, not a collective benefit. The court has also held that the right to the pursuit of happiness is an individual's right, not a collective benefit. The court has held that the right to the pursuit of happiness is an individual's right, not a collective benefit. The court has also held that the right to the pursuit of happiness is an individual's right, not a collective benefit.

This is a perfect example of carrying this equality too far. A perfect example of saying that anything is equal to anything else. A perfect example of saying that anything is equal to anything else. A perfect example of saying that anything is equal to anything else.

Any case can argue the MYICA and WYCA to underwrite any and all is a strike against the pursuit of happiness. For my part I am willing to accept the inequality, if this would assure me of inviolate freedom of the many is a pressing reason for upholding this right. The court has held that the right to the pursuit of happiness is an individual's right, not a collective benefit. The court has also held that the right to the pursuit of happiness is an individual's right, not a collective benefit.

The Hit Publisher

We are concerned because the children are receiving special education. The program included a special class at the Farmingdale High School and a special class at the Memorial School at which the parents were encouraged to stay and help. These classes were doing essentially the same work.

Mr. and Mrs. Lavelle and Barbara Muller, two parents of Main Street School children, asked the board to reconsider the closing of the Main Street School. County Executive Ralph Caso and the Board of Education are changing circumstances including a possible change in the tax base in N. Y. State and the possible closing of Parochial Schools. Mrs. Muller expressed concern about the conditions in the Main Street School. Dr. Kinsler, superintendent of schools, suggested that he be brought into the decision of the closing of the school.

Marilyn Hametz

The Publisher's Observation Point

The second paragraph of the Declaration of Independence starts out saying "We hold these Truths to be self-evident, that all Men are created equal..." In their quest of securing this equality, civil rights activists of all races, colors and territories have cited this phrase as the basis for their endeavors.

It is a pity that they do not complete this sentence, which continues "...that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness."

It would seem obvious, therefore, that securing one right should not impair or endanger another. And it would seem equally obvious that the right to the pursuit of happiness should not be accomplished only by compromise — a compromise on the realization that no rights can be absolute. Not the right to equality, or to the right to the pursuit of happiness.

All of this philosophizing was brought up by a recent news item, according to which the Human Rights Commission of New York City has given a hotel and restaurant, which admit only men or women, or any single sex. This is a discrimination and as such violate the unequal right to equality.

MODEL PH-510 5 H.P. HAHN-ECLIPSE
COMPOST SHREDDER-GRINDER

So extremely rugged it will easily shred hardwood tree prunings 1½" thick. Occasional stones accidentally introduced into the feed hopper are instantly pulverized. The balanced rotor has 24 hardened steel hammers that are free swinging and will not snap or bend under strain. Exterior sealed ball bearings, large feed hopper, ball bearing rubber wheels, 5 H.P. gasoline engine, epoxy painted steel body all add up to quality. It is difficult to find a shredding or grinding chore the PH-510 will not handle easily. Even tin and aluminum cans, newspaper and cardboard or plastic bottles can be instantly pulverized.

The fineness you process your materials is determined by the screen used in the machine. Each unit is shipped including one screen with 1" diameter holes. Other screen hole sizes available. Screens are changed by simply removing two rods. Clutch idler pulley on the gasoline engine permits easy starting. (See reverse side.)

Hein, Jr. of 50 Garnet Drive and Mrs. Sylvester Jones of Flushing, N. Y. The candlelight ceremony took place January 5 at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Farmingdale, with congregational participation in psalms and singing of two hymns. The Reverend James R. The bride's father gave his daughter in marriage.

Women's Club Heard Speaker in Price

The members of the Women's Club of Farmingdale heard a most interesting talk at their February meeting by Arthur Jacobs, representative of Price in Farmingdale. A state-supported anti-drug organization, its leaders met with about 250 young people each week at its headquarters at 585 Main St.

Deprived of state funds until April 1st because of the national economy, the young people are requested to volunteer and contribute themselves at $1 per person. Magazines and crafts would be welcome and the headquarters would also be of assistance. The support and interest of a community youth movement is needed and the people of Farmingdale, reported on a card in the Chamber of Commerce, for $1.00 p.m. to raise money for its welfare activities.

Healey Opposed to Fleischmann Report

The much discussed Fleischmann report which was published this week has already been repudiated by Assemblyman Philip Healey. The Nassau County Republican will make his views better known in our next issue.

In other action in Albany, Healey announced hearings will be held next month in Mineola, March 9 and in Hauppauge March 11 on two bills aimed at controlling pollution of the area.

One bill would empower the Environmental Commissioner to levy fines for pollution or other environmental damage to all shore waters within 200 miles of the state's coastline. Commercial fishermen have been complaining that foreign fishing fleets have been dumping enormous quantities of their waste waters and are spoiling them.

The second bill deals with the development of all the coasts of Long Island and the effects of oil pollution. It would give the Environmental Commissioner the power to review and approve offshore drilling leases.

Healey announces hearings will be held (March 9) and in Hauppauge (March 11) on two bills aimed at controlling pollution of the area.

The tax forms for 1971 will look somewhat the same as they did in 1970. However, it is important to remember that the Revenue Act of 1969 was scheduled to take effect in stages, and that again, this year there are some significant changes which could affect a great number of taxpayers. Usually when the question of changes in the tax laws is raised, someone is sure to step forward and say, "Ah, tax laws are so complex that it is virtually impossible for the average individual to prepare his own return without professional help." In answering this challenge, it is important to remember that in order to be fair to everyone, the forms must be somewhat complex. The simplest form of taxation would be a flat percentage assessed against everyone's income, regardless of how large or small the income is. However, this method would be unfair, because it would eliminate the tax advantages urgently needed by the lower income, unskilled, unskilled, unskilled taxpayers, or taxpayers with heavy families or excessive medical bills.

You May No Longer Be Required to File A Return!

The filing requirements which came into effect in 1969 are still with us—they will not change again until 1973! If you are a married person filing a separate return, you must file if you have over $600 in taxable income (bear in mind that persons who have been abandoned may qualify for special treatment); if you are single you must file if you have over $500 in taxable income. If you are a married couple filing jointly, you must file if you have $600 and are over $600; and if you are a married couple filing jointly and one spouse is over 65 and over $500, and if you are a married couple filing jointly and both spouses are over 60, you must file. Dolphins Offer Food for Thought Before Their Next Forum

The Dolphin Green Civic Association will have its annual meeting and awards dinner on March 3, at Guild Hall of Farmingdale High School. This year marks the 10th anniversary of the organization, founded by Frank Barbesere, who has formulated a number of questions that residents can mull over prior to the meeting and - as a member of the organization - submit to the public officials at the meeting. These questions do not need to bring about a change in any city government and are:

Do you know what the master plan is and how this will affect you?

For paying higher taxes than other county, are you receiving maximum benefits from your county, town, and school districts?

Do you know what percentage of your taxes you have paid to school, town, and county in the past five years who has taken the biggest increase from you?

Have you ever stayed for the marvelous job they did in renewing friendships. Everyone attending enjoyed the entire affair and seeing to it that every detail was just right.
